To Jeffrey B. Light, for inspiring me to excel

In Buddhist legend, Makio is a magic, clairvoyant mirror, revealing all things about our past — the bad as well as the good. It reflects. And this book — the Makio — is meant to help you reflect on your experiences at Ohio State. The square of silver represents the mirror.

All the people here are different, and their experiences differ. We cannot photograph your memories, and so we photograph some of the people and places here, and express some experiences in words, in the hope that they will help you remember what Ohio State was to you.

"If this book isn't arranged to suit you, get up one of your own. It's good inexpensive experience. If the binding isn't to your liking, tear it off. If the tone of the book does not strike you, perhaps your taste has not been sufficiently and properly cultivated. If you have any ideas whatever, use them in your own book, we shall have no use for them."

Ohio State opened its '77 football season with a power backfield and their first-ever meeting with Miami of Florida. The Buckeyes beat the Hurricanes, but lost Jeff Logan and his backup, sophomore Ricky Johnson, in the process.

Early in the second quarter — after gaining 31 yards in 10 carries — Logan was forced off the field with an ankle injury. The Bucks kept up their scoring drive, however, and sophomore Vlade Janakievski kicked in a 31-yard field goal to put OSU on top, 3-0, with 10:40 left in the period.

Ricky Johnson went in at tailback and gained 50 yards in the first half, 32 of them in a broken-field run that gave Ron Springs a chance to score on a 21-yard scamper. The score was 10-0 at halftime.

Halfway into the third quarter, Johnson was out with a knee strain. Springs took over in the backfield, alternating between tailback and full-back and carrying the ball 27 times for 114 yards.

Miami quarterback E. J. Baker led the Hurricanes to the OSU 10, anticipating a score with less than two minutes left in the game. But the Buckeye defense read the pass and gave Ohio State its first win and first shut-out of the season, 10-0.

OSU 38 MINNESOTA 7

Rod Gerald and Ron Springs had a good afternoon September 17, as Gerald completed five of seven passes, one of them a 29-yarder to flanker Herman Jones that scored the first OSU touchdown. An 18-yard Janakievski field goal gave the Buckeyes a 10-0 lead at the half.

There must've been something special in Woody's locker-room chat, as the Bucks scored four TD's in the second half — three of them on all three of their fourth-quarter possessions.

With a two-yard run, sophomore fullback Ricardo Volley ended a 51-yard scoring drive that started when Ron Springs sped up the middle for 33 yards.

Not to be intimidated, the Gophers countered with a punt return Bobby Weber took from two yards into the end zone all the way for a Minnesota touchdown. The lead was closed down to 17-7.

Springs scored the first Buckeye touchdown of the final period with an 8-yard run. Backup quarterback Greg Castignola connected with flanker Doug Donley on a 38-yard pass for another TD. Joel Payton ended the day with a seven-yard rush and the final score.

All in all, Ohio State gained 385 yards rushing and 133 yards passing, and kept the Gophers to 123 yards on the ground and 15 in the air.

OKLAHOMA 29

OSU 28

Oklahoma exploded in Ohio Stadium with an Elvis Peacock touchdown, a Billy Sims touchdown, and a von Schamann field goal in the first quarter for a 17-0 lead. Another von Schamann kick early in the second quarter widened the lead to twenty points.

Ron Springs scrambled 30 yards for the first OSU score, and Gerald was close behind with another touchdown to bring the score to 20-14 going into the locker rooms.

Halfway into the third quarter, Joel Payton pulled the long last yard to give the Bucks another touchdown and a 20-20 tie. Vlade Janakievski made the conversion, and Ohio State was ahead, 21-20. The crowd went crazy!

Kelton Dansler intercepted an Oklahoma pass moments later and ran it to the far 33. Two plays and eleven yards later, quarterback Rod Gerald was tackled for no gain and left the game with a concussion. Greg Castignola took over and passed sixteen yards to tight end Jimmy Moore in the end zone. After the point-after, Ohio State had increased its lead to 28-20.

That wasn't quite enough when another Peacock touchdown capped off a 13-play Oklahoma drive that started with a Buckeye fumble, bringing the score to 28-26. His attempted two-point conversion was unsuccessful, and there was less than a minute-and-a-half left in the game.

Von Schamann's kick was recovered by the Sooners at the 50-yard line. Three plays later von Schamann was kicking again — this time a field goal from the 23, with three seconds left 'til the gun. Ohio State had lost to Oklahoma in front of a sellout crowd and a national TV audience.

OSU 46 PURDUE 0

Purdue came to Columbus, and they brought the nation's leading passer, freshman quarterback Mark Herrmann. Five plays into the game, OSU defensive halfback Mike Guess intercepted a Herrmann pass and returned it 65 yards for a touchdown. Before the first quarter was over, Buckeye fullback Joel Payton had converted Lenny Mills' punt-block and Kelton Dansler's interception into three touchdowns and a two-pointer to take a 29-0 lead.

Springs scampered 66 yards for a second-quarter score. Janakievski made a 26-yard field goal to increase the lead to 39-0.

Payton scored again in the third period, gaining 26 points for the day — nearing the 30-point record set by Pete Johnson in 1975.

OSU 42 WISCONSIN 0

On the second play of the '77 Homecoming game — witnessed by Miss America, the newly-crowned OSU King and Queen, and a sellout crowd of 87,837 — quarterback Gerald let loose a 79-yard pass to flanker Jimmy Harrell, who caught it on the Wisconsin 42-yard line and ran the rest of the way to score. Wisconsin's 46-yard field goal attempt by Steve Veith was blocked by Buckeye open-side tackle Byron Cato.

In the second quarter, Joel Payton rolled over from the 1 to finish an 80-yard scoring drive. Ohio State was ahead, 14-0.

They showed the Badgers no more mercy in the second half. The defense — led by linebackers Tom Cousineau and Dave Adkins — had a tremendous afternoon and intercepted four Badger passes. The interceptions were made by Mike Guess, Lenny Mills, Tom Roche, and Kelton Dansler.

Jeff Logan plowed 39 yards for a touchdown, and Gerald followed up a few minutes later with a run-in from the one. The Bucks had 28 points; Wisconsin had none.

Springs cleared a path from the 31 in the fourth quarter for a score. Ric Volley made the final touchdown from the 2-yard line. OSU had won another: 42-0.

Indiana took the opening kickoff — slowly but surely — all the way to the Ohio State 2, where on a fourth-and-two Scott Arnett passed to Keith Calvin in the corner of the end zone. The Hoosiers took a 7-0 lead over the Bucks.

The Buckeyes made their first possession an 11-play, 53-yard drive ending in a touchdown when freshman Payton went in from the 3. The score was tied, and remained that way into the half.

In the third quarter, Jimmy Harrell scored on a 29-yard Gerald pass. Gerald — on an option — ran in from the 7-yard line. Ron Springs scurried in from the one to add to his 72 yards total for the day, pulling the score to 28-7, Ohio.

In the final stanza, backup Buckeyes drove the ball 81 yards for the final touchdown — by Paul Campbell from the one.

Jeff Logan rushed for 148 yards in twenty attempts, his best afternoon all season so far. The Bucks were ready for Michigan . . . they hoped.

MICHIGAN 14
OSU 6

According to statistics, Ohio State should have won: 208 yards rushing to Michigan's 141 yards, 144 yards passing compared to 55, and 23 first downs to the Wolverines' 10 first downs. But, as Woody reminds us, the only stats that count are the final scores.

Ohio State had two Janakievski field goals and two lost fumbles — one in the third quarter on the OSU 20 that set up a Michigan TD, and one late in the fourth quarter that blew away a Buckeye drive to within 8 yards of pay dirt.

There were only two penalties: ten yards total loss, five for each team.

But the most important "two" was the two blue-and-maize touchdowns, one in the second quarter on a Roosevelt Smith 1-yard run, and one in the third quarter when QB Rick Leach ran in from the two.

Said Coach Hayes, "Our kids never tried harder. This is by far the best game we ever played and lost."

Michigan started packing for the Rose Bowl; the Bucks were going to meet Alabama in the Sugar Bowl.

The Crimson Tide kept on the ground with their first possession, a 61-yard drive in 17 plays that OSU MVP Dave Adkins stopped when he spilled 'Bama QB Jeff Rutledge for no gain at the 3-yard line.

The Bucks took possession and went 44 yards before being forced to punt. Alabama scored its first TD on a 1-yard Tony Nathan run.

Buckeye Kelton Dansler was called on a face-mask penalty. Rutledge threw a 27-yard touch-down pass to Bruce Bolton — right over Ray Griffin's head. The point-after attempt by Roger Chapman was wide, and the Tide was still ahead, 13-0.

The Bucks took over on their 23. In eight plays — including a 22-yard Gerald-Moore pass and a 42-yard sprint around left end by Ron Springs — they were "across the field" on Alabama's five. In a power-I formation, Jimmy Harrell caught a pass and took it around the right end. The ball was spotted on the three — one yard short of first down. The Bucks were still scoreless going into the lockers at the half.

In the third quarter, on a tackle by Aaron Brown, Rutledge fumbled the ball and OSU's Adkins recovered it on the 46. Ohio State made it to the thirty, but was forced back to the 40 and had to punt.

The next scarlet-and-gray possession was on the 'Bama 35. Chris Ward jumped offside. Terry Jones forced Gerald into a 4-yard loss. It was fourth and three on the 28.

'Bama was buzzin'. In thirteen plays they drove 67 yards, capped off by Rick Neal's TD catch. Rutledge passed to Nathan for another two points. It was 21-0. (Continued)

ALABAMA 35

OSU 6

In the fourth quarter, Buckeye wingback Jimmy Harrell had a tremendous leaping catch on the 19 and ran in to score with 13:34 to go. A two-point try by Logan was unsuccessful.

Alabama had two more scores — one by Major Ogilvie from the one, and another by Johnny Davis from the five.

The Bucks lost 35-6, finishing the season with a 9-3 record.

Seniors

Oh! Come let's sing Ohio's praise,
And songs to Alma Mater raise;
While our hearts rebounding thrill,
With joy which death alone can still.
Summer's heat or Winter's cold,
The seasons pass, the years will roll;
Time and change will surely show
How firm thy friendship O-hi-o.

Frank H. Haskett was the university photographer for 35 years. He came to Ohio State in 1900 as an undergraduate in electrical engineering, with an interest in photography and a love for the outdoors.

In 1907, when Haskett began teaching, Architecture 33 was offered: Photography. He took every opportunity to inform his colleagues of the value of photography to their work.

Professor Haskett felt a photo library was needed, and he made his personal book and magazine collection available on closed reserve.

Greater student interest in photography led to cramped quarters, and in 1923 a new wing was added to Brown Hall and more space was given to photography students.

In 1929, the Department of Photography was established, and Haskett became its chairman.

He insisted on preserving any photos or negatives that might be historically valuable, despite pressure to destroy such "junk storage." This material was organized by university architect Joseph N. Bradford, "to make as complete as possible, a pictorial record of The Ohio State University from its early days to the present time."

Haskett was made professor emeritus in 1937, and died the following year.

Self Portrait, 1978

The photos here represent a feeling that the camera can record an impression of what is being photographed. More than a documentation of reality, the photos are statements from the photographer's viewpoint. In this sense, the reality of the scene exists as much in the mind of the photographer, as what was actually before the camera lens.

Jeffrey William Evans is a senior majoring in photography.

Students come to OSU from all 88 Ohio counties, all fifty states, and 83 nations around the world. Over 50,000 students meet in 369 buildings on 3,600 acres of campus. They come from city and country, each bringing their own beliefs and ideas.

Although they enter and exit the university as individuals, some choose to join groups while in college — to share ideas and energies, to learn about other ways of thinking, or just to make new friends.

Each person must discover — in his own aloneness — what he wants from life and how he can achieve it. His viewpoint is as important as his talent and motivation.

For, although we are together now, we must separate and each pursue our own dreams.

JEFF LOGAN

"I've got a lot of goals for when I get out of here. One of them is to play pro football, if I have the chance. I'd like to play close to home, I guess . . . but I'd like to play where it's warm."

"Home" is North Canton, and Jeff spends his non-football hours in Columbus as an active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, fund chairman of the Central Ohio Heart Association, and chairman of the Multiple Sclerosis "Rea-dathon." He also participated in the Creative Living "Unwinder" to raise money to help quadraplegics and paraplegics. "I've always had something — a smaller group to belong to. If every student got involved in some kind of organization, I feel they'd be a lot happier here."

"Overall, I think the good opportunities override everything else at Ohio State. The opportunities are available here."

"We had no TV. We watched TV on FM radio."

James G. Friedman, an assistant professor of photography, has studied with Minor White, Ansel Adams, Jerry Uelsmann, Judy Dater, Jack Welpott, and Wynn Bullock.

"While working for Imogen Cunningham, then a 91-year-old West Coast photographer, I was told by her one day: 'Jim, you let me know how many photographs you make when you're 91.' "

Professor Friedman has had one-man exhibitions at the University of Colorado, Boulder, and the Shado' Gallery, Oregon City, Oregon. He has participated in group exhibitions at the Fogg Art Museum, Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts; Focus Gallery, San Francisco; and the Erie Art Center, Erie, Pennsylvania. He contributed to "Photography as a Fine Art," an internationally-circulating show organized by the University of Florida, Gainesville. His work was included in "New Photography: San Francisco and the Bay Region," at the M. H. de Young Memorial Museum, San Francisco, and the Fine Arts Gallery of San Diego.

"For me, photographs serve as evidence. As a youngster, I was convinced that I was an android resembling a pudgy kid. Whenever I would ask if I had been adopted, looking like a ten-year-old, my parents would point to baby pictures and to other photographs that were on the walls of our house and to our photo albums. Even though I could inspect these photographs, I was not convinced that the kid in the family pictures was really me. One photograph came close to convincing me that I may have had a childhood. This snapshot showed me at age six at a playground, dressed in a cowhide cowboy jacket and wearing a Davey Crockett coonskin cap, typical of the era. I think that it was the coonskin cap that convinced me that possibly I had passed through childhood. It seems important that I spent part of my youth examining photographs. It is also important to note that I was suspicious of those photographs, as well."

"Perhaps the most significant photographic event that has occurred to me was in the fall of 1973. I was on a photographic field trip in Martinez, California (Joe DiMaggio's birthplace) with some fellow graduate students and our teachers Jack Welpott, Judy Dater, and Don Worth. While photographing, Welpott looked on helplessly as the tripod which held his new Bronica camera slid down an incline, causing the camera to smash against concrete. Most importantly, he did not become upset."

JIM FRIEDMAN

"They can't teach you motivation in school — if you don't have it, you're not going to make it."

JEANNE SHEPPARD

"I'm not limited in any way. I feel I can do anything I want to." What she wants to do is finish school successfully, get a management position, and work her way up in business.

Jeanne, a junior in marketing, realizes that her goals will not be easily attained. "It is challenging to be a woman in business. There are a lot of barriers. People keep telling me how hard it's going to be, but I view myself as an exception."

"In getting in and being successful, I'm going to have to be much better than the people around me. I'm going to have to be a lot keener than my peers just to get into a good position."

Jeanne is starting early. She is vice president of OSU Advertising Federation, and will be the president of that organization next year. She submitted OSU's winning entry in a Datsun advertising competition this year. She's worked for prominent professors, including Dr. Roger Blackwell and Dr. W. Wayne Talarzyk. This summer, she has an internship with Howard Swink Advertising.

"You have to be humbling in respects, because you can't know everything. It's important to interact instead of being patronizing to others. You have to have that interaction to grow."

Reflections in a Hand-Held
Mirror

I left home and started moving . . .
not knowing quite where I was headed,
but wanting to get there fast.
I had some dreams, but none of them were goals yet.
They hadn't gotten that far.

I came to Ohio State, bringing with me fond and not-so-fond emotions toward authority and things handed down from other generations.

Everyone told me,
"study, study,"
so I started right away.
I sat alone in the library,
forcing my brain to digest information.
Studying is a lonely way to learn.

I found tradition here — it felt warm.
 I also found that learning is more palatable when there's someone else nearby,
 struggling alongside me.
 We could learn from each other.

We joined together
our energies
and our emotions.
We shared small victories and large defeats.

We shared our efforts,
taking a project, a plan, a dream
all the way through.
Never losing hope for tomorrow.
Working and straining,
creating and achieving.

We came together to work, to learn — doing things together that we could never do alone.

Learning to step in unison.
But I realized that I would have to walk alone again,
to leave behind these people and this place.
Now that I knew how to grow,
knew how to learn,
I had to use that knowledge to go after my own goals.

And so I was moving again,
a little more sure
of where I was headed.
I had some dreams,
but none of them had been achieved yet.
I hadn't gotten that far.

We took one last step together,
that I could stand alone as I departed.
A public ceremony can be a private ceremony, too.
It doesn't mean I'm done — it means I've just started.

There is a certain kind of "magic mirror" to which the word "Makio" refers. It is a small mirror — small enough to be held in the palm of your hand. When you look directly into it you can see your own reflection. But if you hold it at just the right angle in the sunlight, you can see the Japanese characters "Ma Kio," as they were painted on the other side of the mirror.

There is something on the surface, and yet there is something past that — behind it, supporting and explaining it. It is very precious, and you must handle it carefully. . . . It's something like a memory.

The 1978 Makio was printed by Taylor Publishing Company of Dallas, Texas. Paper stock is 80-lb. matte. The endsheets, 65-lb. stock, have a 100% silver screen.

Standard headings are Vogue; standard body copy is News Gothic. Other heading styles are Chartpak dry-transfer lettering: Machine for the football section, Friz Quadrata Bold for women's sports, Tiffany Heavy for men's sports, Melior for "Silver Moments," University Roman for "Impressions," Eurostile Extended for "Entertainment," Kabel Heavy for "Belonging & Being," and Microgramma Bold Extended for the index. Headings for "Reflections in a Hand-Held Mirror" are Claudius, a Prestype dry-transfer typestyle.

All copy and layouts by Cindy Ann Beattie. Tool lines, 1- and 3-point, are used throughout the book for emphasis. Silver spot color is used in the first 16-page signature.

The book is rounded and backed, with Smyth-sewn binding.

The embossed cover, made of #15 binder's board, is red with a silver metalique square and silver silk-screened lettering. The typestyle is Prestype dry-transfer Stylized Gothic.

Press run was 800.

The Very Last Word

We seek legend and philosophy to break down units of time, that the unified experiences of all men might help to guide us in the 60-second minutes of our lives.

We use photography to try to capture time, that we might preserve a certain moment in a certain life so others can see this "evidence" and perhaps understand what has happened.

We look into a mirror to see how we look to others. A mirror's reflection does not "capture," but is forever changing.

Makio is an attempt to combine legend and the reflective qualities of a mirror, expressing these with the help of photography. This experiment has been attempted at Ohio State almost every year since 1880, although photography was not a part of the first Makio due to printing costs and technology.

But the experiment is ending. Time couldn't handle such compression and enlargement. And the university has decided to discontinue Makio after this volume.

Sincere thanks go to those who inspired me and kept me going, especially Jenni Imhoff, Jeff Light, and Woody Ellen. To Mr. Jim Trainer, for trusting me all year: may all your bills be small ones.

The mirror is broken now. The silver and magic have worn away . . . allowing us to use the glass as a window to the future.

CAB.
